You are reading the inaugural edition of Dental Tribune America, a one-of-a-kind weekly publication covering all facets of general dentistry.

Our intent is to serve our readers some of the freshest, most informative and most useful information available to practitioners in a style reminiscent of your local community newspaper. We understand the unique needs and concerns of dentists. To serve you, we have assembled a group of some of the top minds in the industry to provide topical, expert information you can really use. The mission of our newspaper is to keep you informed, keep you thinking, keep you learning and keep you in touch with what your peers are doing.

Here is just a small sample of what we’ll be giving you:

• News about people, schools, research, products,
• Practice management concepts from experts in the field, helping practitioners be financially productive. We will solicit and provide information from experts to give our audience practical information they can use to better the health of their practice. Knowledgeable columnists will guide dentists who wish to define and meet their financial goals and increase productivity.
• Listings of dental meetings and other events will encourage participation and keep you up to date on who said what, where, and when.
• Coverage of the internet — who’s using it how, and who’s providing information of most use to practitioners.
• Commentary about the most hot-button issues in the profession, as well as opinions from our readers via letters to the editor.

Please don’t hesitate to share your thoughts, concerns and story ideas with us. We are excited to be serving you.
