AGD
From Page 6

“It’s not like Bruce (DeGinder, AGD president for 2006-2007) finishes his year and everything stops when I begin my year,” Dr. Mayher said. “He has done a wonderful job, and I will work hard to continue in many of the same programs.

“My biggest thrill is in providing the representation the interest of my colleagues who are out there every day in the trenches addressing our nation’s healthcare needs and bringing that to the public. Also to present general dentistry to the public and educate the public as to what we are doing and how we can help them.”

The AGD is getting ready to launch a new publication information campaign.

“IT’S CALLED AGD: A GREAT DENTIST,” Dr. Mayher said. “And we look forward to telling the public about what our dentists are doing today.”

Next year’s AGD event will be held July 16-20 in Orlando, Fla. For more information, see www.agd2008Orlando.org.

Roundup

FDI meeting set to be held in Brazil

During its mid-year meeting last month, the World Dental Federation (FDI) Council selected Salvador, Brazil, to host the 2010 FDI Annual World Dental Congress (AWDC).

The Congress, which is still subject to contract, will be held in the Bahia Conference Centre and the Associação Brasileira de Odontologia (ABO) will serve as FDI’s partner in organizing the congress.

There was strong support by member associations for a congress in the region.

The last FDI Congress held in South America was in 1987. The region accounts for about a quarter of the FDI’s individual membership, with 210,000 dentists in Brazil alone.

With the high number of dentists in the region and the excellent support already received, especially by those in South America, the FDI feels confident that there will be a healthy turnout at this congress and of its success.

FDI bids are evaluated on a number of factors, including the population of oral health professionals in the region and the amount and quality of industry activity. Reports on bids to Council are prepared by the FDI Head Office, specifically, the FDI Events Department.

A press release quoted FDI leadership as saying they were “delighted that the 2010 AWDC will be held in the exciting and vibrant city of Salvador, Brazil.”

The South American geographic area is of great importance to the FDI,” the statement continued, “with almost 50 percent of dentists from the FDI Member Associations living and working in that region. The collaboration and tangible support from the FDI’s Member Association in Brazil, the ABO, the Government of Bahia and the owners of the Convention Centre, Bahiatursa, have been outstanding. We look forward to working with them in organizing an unforgettable congress.”

FDI meeting set to be held in Brazil

During its mid-year meeting last month, the World Dental Federation (FDI) Council selected Salvador, Brazil, to host the 2010 FDI Annual World Dental Congress (AWDC).

Dr. Vincent Mayher speaks at the AGD Convocation Ceremony aboard the USS Midway in San Diego.

With the high number of dentists in the region and the excellent support already received, especially by those in South America, the FDI feels confident that there will be a healthy turnout at this congress and of its success.

FDI bids are evaluated on a number of factors, including the population of oral health professionals in the region and the amount and quality of industry activity. Reports on bids to Council are prepared by the FDI Head Office, specifically, the FDI Events Department.

A press release quoted FDI leadership as saying they were “delighted that the 2010 AWDC will be held in the exciting and vibrant city of Salvador, Brazil.”

The South American geographic area is of great importance to the FDI,” the statement continued, “with almost 50 percent of dentists from the FDI Member Associations living and working in that region. The collaboration and tangible support from the FDI’s Member Association in Brazil, the ABO, the Government of Bahia and the owners of the Convention Centre, Bahiatursa, have been outstanding. We look forward to working with them in organizing an unforgettable congress.”

During its mid-year meeting last month, the World Dental Federation (FDI) Council selected Salvador, Brazil, to host the 2010 FDI Annual World Dental Congress (AWDC).

The Congress, which is still subject to contract, will be held in the Bahia Conference Centre and the Associação Brasileira de Odontologia (ABO) will serve as FDI’s partner in organizing the congress.

There was strong support by member associations for a congress in the region.

The last FDI Congress held in South America was in 1987. The region accounts for about a quarter of the FDI’s individual membership, with 210,000 dentists in Brazil alone.

With the high number of dentists in the region and the excellent support already received, especially by those in South America, the FDI feels confident that there will be a healthy turnout at this congress and of its success.

FDI bids are evaluated on a number of factors, including the population of oral health professionals in the region and the amount and quality of industry activity. Reports on bids to Council are prepared by the FDI Head Office, specifically, the FDI Events Department.

A press release quoted FDI leadership as saying they were “delighted that the 2010 AWDC will be held in the exciting and vibrant city of Salvador, Brazil.”

The South American geographic area is of great importance to the FDI,” the statement continued, “with almost 50 percent of dentists from the FDI Member Associations living and working in that region. The collaboration and tangible support from the FDI’s Member Association in Brazil, the ABO, the Government of Bahia and the owners of the Convention Centre, Bahiatursa, have been outstanding. We look forward to working with them in organizing an unforgettable congress.”

FDI meeting set to be held in Brazil

During its mid-year meeting last month, the World Dental Federation (FDI) Council selected Salvador, Brazil, to host the 2010 FDI Annual World Dental Congress (AWDC).

The Congress, which is still subject to contract, will be held in the Bahia Conference Centre and the Associação Brasileira de Odontologia (ABO) will serve as FDI’s partner in organizing the congress.

There was strong support by member associations for a congress in the region.

The last FDI Congress held in South America was in 1987. The region accounts for about a quarter of the FDI’s individual membership, with 210,000 dentists in Brazil alone.

With the high number of dentists in the region and the excellent support already received, especially by those in South America, the FDI feels confident that there will be a healthy turnout at this congress and of its success.

FDI bids are evaluated on a number of factors, including the population of oral health professionals in the region and the amount and quality of industry activity. Reports on bids to Council are prepared by the FDI Head Office, specifically, the FDI Events Department.

A press release quoted FDI leadership as saying they were “delighted that the 2010 AWDC will be held in the exciting and vibrant city of Salvador, Brazil.”

The South American geographic area is of great importance to the FDI,” the statement continued, “with almost 50 percent of dentists from the FDI Member Associations living and working in that region. The collaboration and tangible support from the FDI’s Member Association in Brazil, the ABO, the Government of Bahia and the owners of the Convention Centre, Bahiatursa, have been outstanding. We look forward to working with them in organizing an unforgettable congress.”